The New York Herald says there are from twelve to fifteen hundred applicants for lodgings at the station-houses in that city every night by homeless wanderers; about one-third find accommodations. In addition to the re-fitting of ships now in port, quite a large fact may be expected to arrive the coming year. The Times thought that the continued pressure was caused by alarm and the consequent desire of every person to be over supplied. Suggestions were current that the Government should be called upon for palliatives, but the Times argued that there is no shadow of pretext for such a step. The Times said:

All classes of the public must be well aware that if the nation should so pitiably lose its self-possession as to give way to panic, there is but one remedy, and that the Government will be compelled to adopt.
There can be no need, however, by formal proceedings to proclaim the belief that the financial sense of Several failures had taken place at Manchester, Sheffield, Glasgow, London and on the continent of Europe, in consequence of the money pressure. Naylor, Vickers & Co. of Sheffield, which firm had a ranch house in America, had suspended. Their labilities were estimated at from £600,000 to £1,-990,000, and their assets were believed to be £200,000 in excess. Their difficulties were believed to be temporary, and were said to have been caused solely by the cessation of remittances from America. The Borough Bank, Liverpool, had suspended. The Bank was paying all its depositors under £200 off in cash. Deposits at 115 sterling, fully secured. Liabilities of the Bank in bills and endorsements supposed three millions ster-ling. Several Liverpool firms had suspended. Other foliures comprise Thornton, Higgins, Ward & Co., Manchester—liabilities half a million. W. & H. Brand & Co. The Western Bank of Scotland, at Glasgow, had been in difficulty, but it was announced that it would receive full aid to meet it. At a public meeting of merchants at Glasgow a deputation was appointed to proceed to London to wait upon the government, and arge the necessity of immediate measures for commercial relief. This deputation would, it was understood, arge upon the government the advisability of suspending some of the provisions of the Bank Charter act, as was done in 1847. British troops. The bombardment of this place commenced on 5th September, as we learned oy advices received here direct from India via Singapore and Hongkong. The city was stormed by the British troops on the 14th, who entered by the Cashmere gate, and after a terrible struggle with the sepoy mutineers took the northern portion of it. On the 16th they captured the magazine and one hundred 16th they captured the magazine and one hundred

The capture of Delhi has been the great event of the fortnight, and we now expect that the rebellion will be speedily crushed. With the stronghold of the will be speedily crushed. With the stronghold of the mutineers in our power, there will be no difficulty in destroying the rebels wherever we may meet them, and thus restoring tranquility throughout the country. The arrival of fresh reinforcements from England, both at Bombay and Calcutta, has contributed to strengthen our hands, and confirm the wavering loyalty of the neutral provinces. Although, however, Delhi has fallen, and the relief of Lucknow is near at hand, there is still a great deal to be done before hand, there is still a great deal to be done before India is perfectly settled, and order restored throughout its blood-stained provinces. For the gigantic work before us all our efforts and resources will be required, and our energies cannot be abated until the fabric of our power is set upon a firmer basis than before.

Next to the momentous incident of the fall of Delhi, and the actual re-advance of our soldiers to the relief

THE "GREAT EASTERN."—The attempt to launch the Great Eastern was made on the appointed day, but resulted in a failure, and the second trial had been postponed one month. Several persons were injured, two of them seriously.

At an early hour a large party of distinguished visitors arrived, including the Duke d'Aumale, the Count de Paris, the Bavarian Minister, the Siamese Embassadors, the Lord Mayor, the Lords of the Admiralty, the Bishop of Nova Scotia, and several Aldermen and officials connected with the city of London. The river was crowded with boats, and the shore was lined with dense masses of persons anxious to witness the ceremony. At 12 o'clock the vessel was christened by Miss Hope, the daughter of the Chairman of the Eastern Steam Navigation Company; the name given to the vessel being the "Leviathan." When the hydraulic rams began to work, the order was distinctly given to "wind up," meaning to coil in the slack between the drum and the cradle. This was accordingly done at the forward drum; but, unfortunately, at the stern of the vessel the men did precisely the reverse, and uncoiled more slack chain. Embassadors, the Lord Mayor, the Lords of the fortunately, at the stern of the vessel the men did precisely the reverse, and uncoiled more slack chain. Among the number of engineers who were looking on, the danger of this was seen at a glance, but there was no official to check the men. The fore part of the vessel then slipped, and the stern rushed down rapidly—she seemed to slip some three or four feet.

At 1.45 everything was again ready to move her still further; again, from out of the dense mass of the timber of the cradles came the little hissing noise, at regular intervals, which told that the enormous presregular intervals, which told that the enormous presregular intervals, which told that the enormous pres-sure of the hydraulic rams was found requisite to start her—still, in spite of all, she never moved, or showed the slightest symptoms of being affected by the terrific pressure. The chain from the bows snap-ped. The stationary engine, which was put to haul up the chains to the bows at last gave way, and the chain snapped in two, though not until some of the teeth of the windlass of the engine had also broken before the strain. At the same time a pin in the piston-rod of the foremost hydraulic ram also gave way, and these two accidents were irreparable. The signals were made to cease hauling, and in a minute or so afterwards the officials of the Company anappeared that the laurech was over for the day

S ACKNOWLEDGED TO BE. BY ALL who have tried it, the best Toxic and Anti-Dyspertic ever presented to the California public.

In New York City and Buffale, N. Y., where the Turner Bros. first introduced it to the world, it has secured an unprecedented degree of popularity, owing solely to its sanitary and extraordinary medical properties.

Medical men and men of science all pronounce it to be the most healthful and invigorating, and whether it is used by adults or infants, its effects are alike beneficial. It is furely yestable, and is composed of the juice of berries, herbs, wild plants and roots;

The Spring's first buds, the mellow Autumn's fruits;

The bright wild flowers, whose fragrance charms the bee;

The op'uing leaves, the bark of the forest tree;

The bulbous root on mountain slope that's found;

The spreading vine that grows in marshy ground.
